

Reality Coach® Teleclass now online

Contributed by G. Scott Graham
Friday, 26 October 2007
Last Updated Friday, 26 October 2007

The weekly teleclass component of the Reality Coach credential is now recorded and available online at <http://podcast.RealityCoaching.info> or <http://teleclass.RealityCoaching.info>. It is also streamed in directly at the main Reality Coaching site (in the Feeds area). So you now never have to worry about missing a call.

Reality Coaching -- an approach to business coaching / life coaching using an established model -- has this entire learning website available for coaches who want to move beyond a constellation of disparate techniques or gut feelings to a model for growth and change used by thousands of "change agents" -- counselors, social workers, personal coaches, marriage and family therapists -- world wide.

You can participate in any number of ways -- from online blogging as you read texts to publishing papers that show the power of Reality Coaching -- to the weekly teleclass -- to live role plays via conference calls. You keep track of your own progress and success via your own personal website / e-portfolio that is assigned and created for you at <http://RealityCoaching.info> (registered participants only).

One final note, listening to a recording of a Reality Coaching teleclass does not count as meeting one of the requirements toward the Reality Coach Credential (which is participating in the teleclass).